An Echo From The War

While knitting socks for the soldier boys in 1918 Mrs. S. L. Mossbarger put a note in one of the socks requesting an answer from the soldier who received them. The socks were turned in to the Red Cross with others and a few days ago Mrs. Mossmessage on a postal card:

Soest 6, 12, '21 Dear Mistress:

A good deal of American war clothes are sold in Holland and in this manner was here found Miss Mina Kranz, teacher in in a pair socks a surprise--your socks. I am the happy one, a Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Hetrick Dutchman of 62 years old and Though no American boy fighting for humanity, now can wear those socks, in this case I take intentions. So I hope your three sons have returned safe and well in their homes.

Let us pray that God's blessing may rest upon the "no more war movement."

Yours truly, Y. Y. de Kaerjer. Soest, Parklaan, G.

Guests In Laclede

The Tourist Club held one of the must delightful meetings of the year at the home of Mrs. T. E. Sisson, at Laclede, Thursday afternoon. Response was "Noted American People." Mrs. E. L. Robison most ably reviewed "My Son," by Cora Harris. Vistors were Mrs. Clara Oven, of Enid; Mrs. Clifford Shell, Miss Margaret Kelly, of Laclede; Mrs. Newton Roberts, of Ottumwa; Mrs. S. H. Nelson, of Decatur, Illinois, the two latter being daughters of Mr. Sisson. After a six o'clock dinner, instrumental and vocal solos were given by Miss Kelley and Mrs. Shell, both musicians of unusal talent.

It may not be generally known that Mrs. Sisson is an artist of exceptional ability, having studied abroad in her girlhood, and the walls of the spacious home are literally covered with porof route two and their parents; traits, landscapes, marine views, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Jimmerson, in oil, crayon and pen, all the

Perhaps no city in the United States is better known, the world around, than Laclede, the home of General Pershing. Laclede has given to surrounding cities many most prominent citizens, but, she still holds within her modest metes and bounds talent that ye know not of .-- Tourist Journalist, in Daily Argus.
